

FRYING POT

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A frying pot includes a container for receiving therein frying oil, a screen body rotatably and movably received in the container, a casing with an escalating device mounted therein to control the movement and rotation of the screen body. With the rotation and movement of the screen body in the container that is received in the casing, the amount of the frying oil is saved.